DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 4-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 1, line 10, there is no antecedent basis for "each support" in order to understand what this refers back to. Additionally, it is unclear as to the relationship of the support to the rest of the claim. In claim 1, line 15, there is no antecedent basis for "the main panel". In line 6 a "main body panel" is recited and in lines 10-11, "main body forming panels" are recited. It is unclear if this was meant to refer back to one of these or not. The examiner will attempt to apply prior art to the instantly claimed invention even though the above 35 USC 112 issues above make the claims unclear.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

6. Claims 1 and 4-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Youell et al in view of WO 82/00987.

Youell et al discloses a pallet comprising a top sheet 10, a base 12 and connection members 14, 16, 18 there between. See figure 1. The connection member comprise two main body panels 30 and a pairs of opposing side walls 25, 27 wherein the side walls can lock using notches 26, 28 when folded into a supporting member. See figure 5. This connection member is folded then placed between top and bottom panels to form a collapsible pallet there from. See figures 7 and 8. Youell fails to teach the particular connecting member connecting the top and base sheet of the panel, along with the particular size and orientation of the connection members per claims 3-11.

However, WO 82/00987 discloses that a connection member per claims 1-11.

See figures 1-3 which are substantially the same as the applicant's connection member shown in instant figures 1-3.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to Youell et al to substitute one known connection member for another in order to form a collapsible pallet therefrom. With regards to claims 12-21, it would be obvious to use as many connection members as need between the top and bottom sheet as required for a particular application. This would enable one to add strength and/or size to the pallet as needed.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 4-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. The applicant argues that WO'987 appears to not be convertible between a flat and erect position as recited. However, since it appears the structure of the support is the same as instantly recited it would also be capable of this function. As noted above, figure 1 of the applicant's support is substantially the same as the figure in WO '987 comprising two main panels 11, 13, middle panel 12, end flaps 14,24 and side flaps 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 wherein side flaps of the main body panel include an indent 31.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP
